All articles from 2016 and 2017 have been indexed. The WoS does not advertise when they start indexing new volume. It may take 6-18 months. We cannot guarantee the indexation in WoS and never promise it, however, we have good experience with continuous indexation of published articles. If we submit all articles during November, we expect the WoS to index it during the second half of the next year or the first half of the subsequent year.

Some of you might wonder about the logo of Clarivate Analytics where you have expected Thomson Reuters logo. Please be informed the Thomson Reuters sold its science-related division (incl. Web of Science) to Clarivate Analytics in 2016. If you hear someone at your university talk about necessary indexation in Thomson Reuters database, they mean this Web of Science database managed by the Clarivate Analytics - while they just have not heard about this change.
